

Oscill - Sound Manipulation

Oscill (real name unknown) was once an audiologist. As an inspiring innovator, they continually worked on new inventions in hopes of improving hearing aids and equipment with dreams of preventing hearing problems entirely. Oscill could create many inventions rapidly and test them with their power. Unfortunately, many scientists mocked Oscill's inventions since they continually seemed to fail. After funds for their researched stopped coming in due to their continuous failures, Oscill got revenge by forcing some superiors to act as test subjects for his newest invention. The subjects were silenced forever, and it became Oscill's first success at criminal activities.

